

Historic Roads and Neighborhoods in the Town of Bedford

One of the defining characteristics of the Town of Bedford is the intact nature of its historic roads and historic neighborhoods. Residents and visitors alike appreciate a natural and architectural environment in many areas of the Town that is substantially intact from one, two or more centuries past. The texture of unpaved roads, stone walls, historic houses and smaller structures create together an environment of historic and natural beauty that is truly unique, but also quite varied from one area of the Town to another. In compiling the Survey of Historic Buildings for the Town of Bedford, one category of buildings included are those identified as contributing features of Bedford's historic roads and neighborhoods. Historic roads and neighborhoods are those found to be documented on historic maps and which substantially retain their historic character and features.
